

Summer Reading for Pre-AP English Students

Dear Student,

I am so glad that you have selected a Pre-AP English Language Arts course for the 2011-2012 academic year. The sole purpose of Pre AP English in the 9th and 10th grades is to prepare students for AP English Literature Exam that, if passed, will lead to college credit while still in high school. As your teacher, I will do my best to make sure that you have all the knowledge and skills necessary to tackle this test. The only thing that I can't control is the amount and quality of literature that you are reading outside of class, particularly during the summer. Students are more likely to experience success on the AP exam if they have deeply studied as many College Board authors as possible. These are the authors most referenced on the test. You must be reading extensively outside of the class in order to do well.

You recently received a summer reading packet detailing what most students will need to read this summer. I am asking that you still read the required four (4) books over the summer, but two of them must fit the following criteria:

- 1) You need to read How to Read Literature Like a Professor: A Lively and Entertaining Guide to Reading Between the Lines by Thomas C. Foster as one of your selections. You will be tested on this book during the first week of class.
- 2) You must choose one of your other selections from the list that I have attached. This list contains the titles of the literary works most often tested on the AP English Literature Exam. You will be required to do a book talk on this book during the first few weeks of class. Note: There are some poems on the list, but you must choose a novel or play for this assignment. We will cover a lot of the poetry in class.

Finally, I intend to set up an online discussion group where you will be able to interact with one another about your chosen titles as well as discuss the book by Foster. Please check my classroom website (www.mrsbromfield.weebly.com) for more details. Thank you and have a great summer!

Sincerely,

Mrs. Bromfield
